

Janice Jardine and Family Are Getting Settled

Coach's Wife Knows Name of the Game

By LOUISE C. MARSTON
of the news service

Pellie, mid-skirted Janice Jardine, has the right answer for a football coach's wife. An attractive blonde with big brown eyes, Mrs. Jardine came to Madison in early January and only had the chance to see her wife and youngsters over in California before they made the long drive across the country in the family's station wagon.

"I told John I'd love anywhere just as long as we and our children could be together again as a family," she said. Janice came to Madison in early January and only had the chance to see her wife and youngsters over in California before they made the long drive across the country in the family's station wagon.

"I told John I'd love anywhere just as long as we and our children could be together again as a family," she said. Janice came to Madison in early January and only had the chance to see her wife and youngsters over in California before they made the long drive across the country in the family's station wagon.

"I told John I'd love anywhere just as long as we and our children could be together again as a family," she said. Janice came to Madison in early January and only had the chance to see her wife and youngsters over in California before they made the long drive across the country in the family's station wagon.

"I told John I'd love anywhere just as long as we and our children could be together again as a family," she said. Janice came to Madison in early January and only had the chance to see her wife and youngsters over in California before they made the long drive across the country in the family's station wagon.

Wisconsin State Journal

MADISON SECTION 2 SUBURBAN
TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1970

Conrad Still Opposed

Council to Get Throwing Ban

By GEORGE MITCHELL
of the news service

The city council will discuss the ban on throwing objects from the roof of a building, but it is not expected to pass it until after the summer session.

The council will discuss the ban on throwing objects from the roof of a building, but it is not expected to pass it until after the summer session.

Owner Threatens Commune's Eviction

Court Action Set on Festival Site

By RICHARD W. JARDNER
of the news service

The owner of the property threatened to evict the commune from the festival site.

The owner of the property threatened to evict the commune from the festival site.

Women's Arrest

Mothers' Loss of Car Use

By RICHARD W. JARDNER
of the news service

Mothers' loss of car use was a result of the festival activities.

VA Presents Career Awards

Damage to Boiler

By RICHARD W. JARDNER
of the news service

The VA presented career awards to several staff members.

Burning Soot Causes

Damage to Boiler

By RICHARD W. JARDNER
of the news service

Burning soot caused damage to a boiler at the VA.

Out-State Students Will Drop

In Fall on Wisconsin Campuses

By RICHARD W. JARDNER
of the news service

Out-of-state students are expected to drop in the fall on Wisconsin campuses.

Women Voters Offer

Free Rides to Polls

By RICHARD W. JARDNER
of the news service

Women voters are offering free rides to the polls.

Relief Center Open for Striking TA's

Relief Center Open for Striking TA's

By RICHARD W. JARDNER
of the news service

A relief center has been opened for striking TA's.

Rock Festival' Law Considered

Rock Festival' Law Considered

By RICHARD W. JARDNER
of the news service

A law is being considered for the rock festival.

Aroma for Improvement

Oscar Mayer to Deodorize With Mist

By DENNIS MARRAS
of the news service

Oscar Mayer is using mist to deodorize its plant.

Daily Word List

shelving, victim, science, revenue, honor, revenue